Energy firm elects member

High Country Energy, LLC has elected Michael Frost to the wind project's local advisory board. Frost, an area farmer for more than 25 years and a participant in High Country Energy, was elected to the board during the project's recent annual member's meeting. He represents community members within High Country's northern footprint, in Dodge County's Concord, Milton, Wasioja and Mantorville townships and Olmsted County's New Haven and Kalmar townships.

Frost is the ninth member of High Country Energy's advisory board. He joins Chairman Bryant Hokeness and members Barry Rogne, Dan Hoffman, Dana Christie, Ken Binkely, Eric Lee, Lisa Heggedahl and John Meyer. The local advisory board ensures the community's voice is heard throughout the development process.
